Food Assistance Programs for Seniors

Nutrition plays an important role in optimizing well-being, and this is especially important for seniors who may be managing multiple health issues. For those who come up short when budgeting for food or those struggling to prepare their own meals, Nevada offers a number of programs to ensure you get the healthy meals you need.

Meals on Wheels

The Meals on Wheels program has provided balanced, nutritious meals to those in need since the 1960s. This service is generally available to seniors over the age of 60 who are homebound or have a medical condition that makes it difficult to prepare meals. It's important to note that each Meals on Wheels provider determines the frequency and schedule of meal deliveries. Some locations may also have a maximum time frame or number of meals it can deliver to an individual.

Food Pantries

Food pantries are a great option for seniors with a sparse grocery budget. Some pantries offer weekly or monthly pre-packed boxes, while others allow seniors to choose from available options. Many locations even offer drive-through services, allowing seniors to collect their food without ever needing to leave their vehicles.
